Nader Hayaux Goebel provides a comprehensive analysis of the latest updates in Mexico's data protection regulations. The firm highlights important changes, including developments in international data transfers, the obligations of entities under current data laws, and the dissolution of the National Institute for Transparency, Access to Information, and Personal Data Protection (INAI).

Authored by Luciano Pérez, Ana Paula Silva, and Allan Pastor, this guide explores key obligations under Mexican data protection regulations, such as obtaining consent, maintaining data security, and upholding ARCO rights (Access, Rectification, Cancellation, and Opposition). The analysis also covers sector-specific considerations, including the use of cookies, personalized marketing, employment privacy, and data transfers in asset deals.

In light of the dissolution of INAI, the firm is closely monitoring changes in regulatory enforcement and continues to guide clients on strategies to navigate the shifting data protection environment in Mexico.
